Trump assures support to India during high-profile meeting with Modi

PM Modi and US President Trump discuss defence, trade and regional security at G7 sidelines

EVIAN-LES-BAINS

Prime Minister Narendra Modi and U.S. President Donald Trump held wide-ranging talks on the sidelines of the G7 Summit on Wednesday, with Trump assuring India of American support in the event of any external attack and praising Modi's leadership.

The bilateral meeting focused on defence cooperation, trade relations, maritime security and developments in West Asia. Trump said the United States would stand by India if it faced any security threat, even in the absence of a formal treaty commitment.

The two leaders also discussed the evolving situation in West Asia, including the U.S.-Iran peace framework and disruptions in the Strait of Hormuz. Modi expressed hope that recent diplomatic efforts would lead to lasting peace in the region and raised concerns over attacks affecting Indian seafarers.

During the interaction, Trump showered praise on the Indian Prime Minister, describing him as a strong and effective leader. The meeting comes amid ongoing negotiations on trade issues and growing strategic cooperation between the two countries.

The talks marked one of the most closely watched engagements at the summit, reflecting the importance both nations place on strengthening bilateral ties amid global geopolitical uncertainties.

- Trump reiterated support for India's security interests.

The meeting took place on the final day of the G7 Summit in Evian-les-Bains, where world leaders discussed economic growth, artificial intelligence, Ukraine, West Asia and critical minerals. India attended the summit as an invited nation. Observers view the meeting as an important signal of continued India-U.S. cooperation on regional and global issues.

TRUMP WARNS IRAN OF RENEWED STRIKES IF PEACE ACCORD FALTERS

US President Donald Trump warned that Washington could resume military action against Iran if Tehran fails to comply with the terms of a peace accord expected to be signed in Switzerland on Friday. Speaking on the sidelines of the G7 summit alongside Egyptian President Abdel Fattah el-Sisi, Trump stressed that the proposed agreement was only a "memorandum of understanding" and not a final settlement. He said the United States would not hesitate to act if Iran violated its commitments. "If I don't like it, we will go back to shooting at them," Trump said, adding that the US would resume bombing campaigns if Iran did not "behave." The remarks come amid efforts to formally end hostilities between the two longtime adversaries after months of heightened tensions and military exchanges. Trump also rejected suggestions that the deal would immediately ease sanctions on Iran, saying no such relief was included in the current framework. The agreement, if signed, is expected to lay the groundwork for a broader peace process, though Trump's comments underscored lingering distrust between Washington and Tehran.

Poster war adds political heat to Bidadi Township row

BIDADI

The controversy surrounding the proposed Bidadi Township project has escalated into a full-fledged political poster war between the ruling Congress and the BJP-JD(S) alliance. Congress workers put up posters targeting opposition leaders and accusing them of political opportunism over the farmers' agitation.

The posters took aim at BJP leaders, including Opposition Leader R. Ashoka, while also mocking the JD(S) for announcing a padayatra against the project. In a separate campaign, Congress workers displayed posters carrying photographs of Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy, Nikhil Kumaraswamy and Anita Kumaraswamy, alleging links to benami properties.

The exchange highlights the growing political stakes in the Bidadi Township debate, which has triggered strong resistance from local farmers. With both sides seeking to mobilise public opinion, the issue has moved beyond a land acquisition dispute and emerged as a major political flashpoint in Ramanagara district.

CM hits back at BJP over Bidadi project, says Opposition blocking development

BENGALURU

Amid the escalating political row over the proposed Bidadi Township project, Karnataka Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar on Wednesday accused the BJP of attempting to obstruct the state's development and vowed to expose what he termed the opposition's political motives.

Responding to criticism from BJP leaders and farmer groups opposing the project, Shivakumar said the government was committed to planned urban expansion and would not be deterred by political attacks. He maintained that the project was part of a long-term development vision and not driven by any vested interests.

The BJP claimed that a majority of farmers were against the project and accused the government of prioritising real estate development over agricultural interests. Shivakumar, however, asserted that most affected landowners had already agreed to the project and were awaiting compensation. He also pointed out that similar large-scale township projects were being undertaken in neighbouring states.

> —D.K. Shivakumar, Chief Minister

DK Shivakumar says township project aimed at development, not private interests

The controversy has triggered a sharp political confrontation between the Congress and the BJP-JD(S) alliance. While opposition leaders allege that the project is linked to a land mafia and threatens fertile agricultural land, the government insists it is a continuation of an earlier development proposal and has received substantial support from farmers. The issue has emerged as a major political flashpoint in Ramanagara district, with both sides seeking to rally public opinion ahead of future electoral contests.

Council poll race hots up as Cong holds mock voting exercise

RAMANAGARA

With the biennial elections to the Karnataka Legislative Council scheduled for June 18. Congress organised a mock voting exercise for its MLAs at the resort on Wednesday to familiarise them with the voting process. Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar participated in the exercise as the party sought to ensure unity ahead of the high-stakes election.

The contest has gained significance after Congress fielded five candidates for the seven available seats, while the BJP has fielded two candidates and the JD(S) one. While four Congress candidates and two BJP nominees are expected to win comfortably, the seventh seat has emerged as the key battleground.

Mock voting exercise held as parties intensify battle for crucial seventh seat

Congress candidate Vinay Kumar and JD(S) candidate Govindaraju are locked in a keen contest for the final berth. The ruling party is reportedly banking on support from independents and legislators from other parties to secure victory.

The presence of former BJP legislators B.T. Somashekar and Shivaram Hebbar, who have been politically aligned with Congress, at the resort attracted attention and fuelled speculation over voting patterns.

"The mock voting exercise was organised to ensure that every MLA casts a valid vote and to prevent any errors during polling," Congress leaders said.

Council election arithmetic

Seven seats are up for grabs. Congress has fielded five candidates, BJP two and JD(S) one. Four Congress and two BJP candidates are expected to win comfortably, leaving the seventh seat as the decisive contest.

Ashoka urges govt to scrap Bidadi Township project

BENGALURU

Leader of the Opposition R. Ashoka on Wednesday demanded that the Karnataka government abandon the proposed Bidadi Township project and accept the demands of farmers and milk producers opposing land acquisition in the region.

After meeting farmers and dairy producers in Bidadi, Ashoka said the area was among the most fertile agricultural belts he had seen in his political career. He claimed that milk production in the region touches six lakh litres a day, generating an annual turnover of ₹25 crore, while silk-related activities contribute another ₹35 crore to the local economy.

Questioning the rationale behind converting agricultural land into layouts, Ashoka said compensation alone could not replace livelihoods built over generations. He argued that farmers would be unable to purchase equivalent land elsewhere and warned that the project could displace local communities while benefiting outsiders.

Ashoka also criticised Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar, accusing him of taking contradictory positions on environmental issues.

> Not even an inch of land here is unsuitable for cultivation. Farmers do not want to lose the property that has come down through generations.
> —R Ashoka, Opposition Leader

IAF flies 200+ sorties to secure NEET-UG re-exam papers

NEW DELHI

The Indian Air Force (IAF) has carried out more than 200 sorties over the past four days to transport question papers for the NEET-UG 2026 re-examination, one of the largest security operations undertaken for a national entrance test in recent years.

The mission began on June 13, ahead of the June 21 re-examination. The government enlisted the IAF following the cancellation of the original NEET-UG examination amid allegations of a question paper leak.

Transport aircraft and helicopters have been deployed to collect question papers from designated distribution hubs and deliver them to over 20 locations across the country. Authorities have withheld operational details for security reasons.

The National Testing Agency (NTA) has also strengthened digital monitoring and introduced additional safeguards to prevent misinformation and attempts to compromise the examination process. More than 2.2 million candidates are expected to appear for the re-test after the May examination was scrapped.

Mock drills were conducted in several locations, including Tamil Nadu, where Army helicopters tested the secure movement of examination materials. Officials said the coordinated effort was aimed at ensuring that question papers reach centres without delay or risk of tampering.

"The use of Air Force resources is intended to speed up delivery and strengthen security arrangements for the re-examination," an NTA official said.

- Over 200 IAF sorties conducted.
- Mission launched on June 13.
- More than 20 destinations covered nationwide.
- Over 2.2 million candidates to appear on June 21.

Israeli strikes hit south Lebanon despite regional peace framework

BEIRUT

Israeli forces carried out a series of airstrikes across southern Lebanon on Wednesday, despite a recently announced U.S.-Iran peace framework that includes provisions aimed at ending hostilities in Lebanon.

According to reports, Israeli warplanes targeted the Nabatieh al-Fawqa area and the outskirts of Kfar Tebnit, while a drone strike hit Ansariyeh in the Zahrani region. The attacks came even as violence in the region has declined since the announcement of a broader West Asia ceasefire arrangement earlier this week.

Lebanese authorities said at least five people have been killed in Israeli strikes since the peace deal was unveiled. The reduced level of fighting has encouraged some residents to return to their towns and villages, although the Lebanese Army has advised civilians to delay their return because of continuing security risks.

The conflict escalated in March after Hezbollah launched attacks against Israel, prompting a large-scale Israeli air and ground campaign. While the U.S.-Iran agreement seeks to halt military operations across multiple fronts, disagreement remains over Israel's military presence in parts of Lebanon.

Iranian Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi said any continued Israeli military action in Lebanon would violate the understanding reached between the parties. Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, however, has maintained that Israeli forces will remain deployed in Lebanon as long as necessary.

The future of the ceasefire remains uncertain as competing interpretations emerge over Lebanon's role in the broader peace framework. Iran and Hezbollah insist that Israeli forces must withdraw from occupied Lebanese territory, while Israel has signalled no immediate plans to pull back. Hezbollah leader Naim Qassem is expected to address supporters, with regional observers closely watching whether the group maintains its restraint or resumes military operations.

K-RERA fight for fin autonomy runs into govt wall

'Karnataka's real estate regulator is not facing a shortage of funds, but it is increasingly losing control over its own regulatory.

BENGALURU

While Karnataka Real Estate Regulatory Authority (K-RERA) continues to generate steady revenue through project and agent registrations, penalties and various fees, its ability to independently decide how these funds are utilised has gradually diminished.

Control over the regulator's dedicated fund has increasingly shifted to the state govt, raising concerns about K-RERA's operational autonomy.

The K-RERA Regulatory Fund, a dedicated account mandated under the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act 2016 is meant to ensure the authority's financial self-sufficiency.

The fund was designed to allow the regulator to independently hire staff, process complaints, and manage day-to-day operations without relying on state budget allocations. However this structure has effectively been altered over time. The shift began on March 30, 2019, when the govt took over RERA receipts of around Rs 44 crore, classifying them under a "revision fund". From April 2019, all collections under the Rera framework began flowing into state-controlled accounts, with expenditure for K-RERA later released through annual budgetary allocations.

Under Section 75 of the Act, K-RERA was originally expected to function through a dedicated, self-managed regulatory fund. Officials and internal communications point out that subsequent finance department orders in 2021 further formalised the arrangement by moving balances into non-interest-bearing reserve accounts and routing all expenditure through the state budget head. This, officials argue, has effectively removed direct operational control over its own funds, shifting K-RERA from a self-sustaining regulator to a budget-dependent body.

The impact is visible on the ground, delayed recruitment, slower legal and expert consultations, mounting complaint backlogs, and constraints in stre ngthening basic infrastructure. The authority has shot off letters between March 2021 and July 2022, but officials say there has been no resolution. The matter reached the High Court in 2021, where concerns were raised over the handling of the regulatory fund.

The court directed the govt to retrace and fall in line with other neighbouring states so that autonomy to the authority would emerge, underscoring the need to restore financial independence. Despite the order, officials say the budgetary system continues with the state govt funding salaries, maintenance and operations.

As of March 2026, K-RERA has collected Rs 85 crore in regulatory revenue. In a fresh communication to the Chief Secretary, it has again sought urgent restoration of control over the regulatory fund, stating the current framework limits its ability to function as an independent quasi-judicial regulator.

Fight for independence

Despite generating substantial revenue, the Karnataka Real Estate Regulatory Authority (K-RERA) has hit a government wall in its pursuit of financial autonomy. The state government continues to control its funds and operational budgets, limiting the regulator's independence and its ability to independently hire external consultants.

The struggle for financial control involves several key roadblocks:

SHIFTED CONTROL: Under the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act (RERA) 2016, K-RERA is mandated a dedicated regulatory fund to achieve self-sufficiency, but administration has increasingly shifted to the state govt.

REVENUE GENERATION: While the authority continues to collect steady revenue from project registrations, penalties, and fees—accumulating Rs 85 crore as of recent checks—it is still forced to rely on state budget allocations for basic salaries and maintenance.

CONSULTANT BOTTLENECK: Restrictions have been placed on K-RERA's ability to independently hire technical, legal, and financial domain experts, hindering its ability to operate as a fully independent quasi-judicial body.

BROADER PUSHBACK: The financial squeeze comes on the heels of the Karnataka High Court previously striking down circulars related to delay fees imposed on developers, citing a lack of strict statutory backing. Furthermore, the authority has struggled with enforcement, with revenue recovery processes yielding low returns.

10-metre viewing gap, no feeding or bathing by visitors.

Dubare fallout: K'taka forest dept issues new SoP for elephant camps

BENGALURU

Nearly a month after the tragic incident at Dubare Elephant Camp in Kodagu, the forest department has ordered a comprehensive overhaul of tourist management and elephant-handling practices across its 14 elephant camps in the state.

As part of the revamp, the department has notified a detailed Standard Operating Procedure (SoP) aimed at transforming the camps from close-contact tourist attractions into regulated eco-tourism and conservation education centres.

The new guidelines place a strong emphasis on public safety, elephant welfare and emergency preparedness. Contrary to the popular perception that elephant camps are recreational destinations, the SoP makes it clear that they are not entertainment venues and requires visitors to maintain a safe distance from elephants at all times. Activities that were once popular among tourists, including touching, feeding, bathing elephants and taking selfies close to the animals — have now been completely prohibited.

The SoP states, the purpose of allowing visitors to these camps is conservation education, awareness and not direct interaction with the elephants.

Weekly closure day for all camps

Tourists will only be allowed to observe from designated galleries or viewing points and will be prohibited from entering rivers, bathing areas or elephant movement corridors. It also mandates a weekly closure day for all camps, preferably Tuesdays.

Among the key features of the protocol is the introduction of a three-tier safety zoning system, demarcating separate areas for visitors, forest staff and elephant handlers.

Public shall be restricted to designated 'green zones' surrounded by barricades. No visitor shall be allowed to go out of the green zone.

This will be followed by 'amber zone' where department officials, emergency response teams and operational support staff are allowed to enter. Beyond these, will be the 'red zone' where only mahouts, kavadis, veterinarians and authorised forest officials will be allowed," it states.

Bathing, feeding, tethering, veterinary care, elephant movement, loading and unloading, and active handling of elephants will be carried out exclusively within the red zone, which will be secured through barricades and physical separation. The SoP also mandates CCTV surveillance of critical areas to monitor violations and detect any attempt to cross safety barriers.

The protocol prescribes a minimum viewing distance of 10 metres between visitors and elephants wherever feasible. Not more than 10 elephants can be displayed during any public session, and only those classified as Green Category animals assessed as calm, healthy and responsive to commands by veterinarians, mahouts and camp authorities can be presented before visitors.Elephants showing signs of aggression, stress, illness, fatigue, musth or behavioural uncertainty will be barred from public viewing. Daily behavioural assessments will be mandatory before every visitor session. The guidelines place special emphasis on bathing activities, categorising them as high-risk operations.

Insta friendship ends in tragedy: Woman killed, live-in partner held

CH NEWS

A shocking murder case has come to light, where a 20-year-old woman was allegedly strangled to death by her live-in partner following a personal dispute inside their rented house in Malleswaram.

The victim, identified as Anusha (20), and the accused, Sharath (25), were both natives of Sakleshpur in Hassan district. According to preliminary information, the two had become acquainted through Instagram and later entered into a live-in relationship.

Sharath, who worked as a water tanker driver, and Anusha had been living together in a house at Thayappa Garden in Malleswaram for the past six months. Police sources indicate that the couple had experienced frequent disagreements even before the incident. Investigators have learned that Anusha was neither studying nor employed at the time. Information gathered so far suggests that she had no parents and was survived by an elder sister. Residents familiar with the couple reportedly told police that Sharath used to take care of household chores, including washing clothes and utensils.

Police inquiries have revealed that the couple had argued on multiple occasions in the past. Following one such dispute, Anusha had reportedly returned to Sakleshpur and stayed there for some time. However, Sharath is said to have brought her back to Bengaluru just two days before the fatal incident.

According to investigators, another argument broke out between the two shortly after her return. During the altercation, Sharath allegedly strangled Anusha, leading to her death.

The incident reportedly took place on Saturday night at their residence in Malleswaram. However, the matter came to light only later when Sharath informed a lawyer about what had happened on Monday. The lawyer immediately alerted the police, following which personnel from the Sheshadripuram Police Station visited the location and conducted an inspection. Based on the findings, police registered a case and launched a search operation. Sharath was subsequently traced and taken into custody. He has since been arrested and is currently being subjected to detailed questioning as part of the ongoing investigation.

Following legal formalities, Anusha's body was handed over to her family members. Police are continuing their investigation to establish the complete sequence of events surrounding the incident.

No relief for BDA secy on KIC rap

BENGALURU

The High Court has refused to interfere with disciplinary action recommended by Karnataka Information Commission (KIC) against CL Shivakumar, Secretary of Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) and also an appellate authority under RTI Act. Shivakumar challenged the two orders passed by KIC, first, passed in January 2026 imposing Rs 25,000 as cost for failure to furnish the information; second, in February 2026, recommending disciplinary action against him. The petitioner argued he took charge as BDA Secretary on May 8, 2025, and the order directing providing information preceded that date. Rejecting his argument, Justice Suraj Govindaraj pointed out from May 8, 2025, till KIC passed the orders, there was sufficient time available for Shivakumar to take action in terms of the earlier directions. Hence, his conduct cannot be approved of.

Man tries to get free 5G upgrade, ends up with Rs 15 lakh loan

BENGALURU

A 50-year-old private firm employee was duped by a cyber fraudster posing as an executive of a telecom service provider company who offered to upgrade his 4G sim to 5G.

By converting the sim into an e-sim, the fraudster hacked the victim's email, mobile number and bank account. A Rs 15 lakh loan was fraudulently obtained through the victim's bank account, and Rs 2.1 lakh was siphoned off in just 30 minutes.

According to the complaint filed by the person, a resident of Victoria Layout, the incident happened on June 13 when he received a call from a mobile number around 3 pm. The caller claimed to be an executive of a telecom service provider company and offered to upgrade the victim's mobile connection from a 4G to a 5G sim, the person said.

The fraudsters collected the Embedded Identity Document (EID) number and converted his mobile number into an e-sim. Soon after, the fraudster gained control of the victim's email account, mobile number and banking credentials.The fraudster subsequently obtained a loan of Rs 15 lakh in the victim's name through his bank account without his knowledge.

Of the sanctioned amount, Rs 14.6 lakh was credited to the victim's account, and almost Rs 2.2 lakh was siphoned off by 3.30pm.

Realising that his account had been compromised, the victim complained to the cyber helpline and bank. On June 15, he approached the central cyber crime police and lodged a complaint.

The fraudsters took advantage of this option and selected their device to convert and activate the e-sim. They also hacked the banking credentials and took an instant loan from the bank. Before they siphoned off the entire loan amount, the victim realised it was a fraud and filed a complaint.

HEALTH CONCERN

Fake gynaecologists under Health dept scanner

BENGALURU

Amid reports of a growing num ber of pregnant women falling prey to unqualified practitioners posing as gynaecologists in Bengaluru's outskirts and suburban areas, the Bengaluru Urban Zilla Panchayat has directed the Health Department to intensify action against such individuals.

"Unqualified practitioners masquerading as gynaecologists are allegedly administering unauthorised treatment in several parts of the district, putting the lives of mothers and newborns at serious risk during childbirth," said R Yatheesh, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of the Bengaluru Urban ZP.

Chairing the quarterly District-level Coordination Committee meeting of the National Child Health Programme (RBSK), ASHA Monitoring and Grievance Redressal, and NPPCF programme, he directed the Health Department to constitute a special team to inspect private gynaecology clinics across the district and initiate legal action against unqualified practitioners.

According to officials, many such practitioners are graduates of ayurveda or homeopathy. Especially in rural areas, people do not know the difference between an MBBS doctor and a BAMS or BHMS doctor. Duri ng emergencies, they often go to the first clinic they find. So far, we have not had any untoward incidents, and we want to ensure it stays that way, a senior official said.Yatheesh also instructed ASHAs, who regularly visit households, to document the dietary patterns of pregnant women and new mothers in Bengaluru Urban district over the next three months and submit a comprehensive report.

The direction follows a recent report submitted by the CEO of Mandya district, which found that nutrient-deficient dietary habits were widespread and could be contributing to poor infant health and malnutrition. He said such a report woul d help the department design targeted awareness campaigns and nutritional interventions.

He also called for coordinated efforts across departments to reduce reliance on groundwater for drinking water as part of fluorosis prevention measures.

Woman spots iPhone in PG bathroom vent, neighbour questioned

BENGALURU

A private firm employee's alertness helped uncover an alleged attempt to secretly record women in the bathroom of a paying guest accommodation in Bhoganahalli near Bellandur.

The woman, who has been residing at a co-living PG for the past two months, told police that at 4.30 pm on June 14, she noticed a white iPhone inside the bathroom air vent. Suspecting that someone was recording her, she left the bathroom and alerted the PG caretaker.

The caretaker knocked on the door of a room adjacent to the complainant's room and the person who came out denied any wrongdoing.

However, during further questioning, he admitted to have placed his phone on the bathroom vent, Roopa told police. The suspect was brought to Bellandur police station, where his mobile phone was examined.

An officer said, "We didn't find the complainant's bathing video on his phone. There is a possibility that he deleted the video or she spotted the phone before he recorded anything."

Demand rises for govt PU college in Belagavi North

Demand grows for government PU college in Belagavi North due to limited public institutions and rising student admissions pressure.

BELAGAVI

The demand for establishing an additional government Pre-University (PU) college in Belagavi North constituency has gained momentum, highlighting concerns over limited access to affordable higher secondary education in the region.

According to local residents and education stakeholders, Belagavi city currently has around 72 PU colleges, but only a small fraction is government-run institutions. Of these, just one government PU college is located in the Belagavi North constituency, leaving a significant gap in public education access for students from economically weaker backgrounds.

With rising enrolment pressure after SSLC results each year, parents and educators have expressed concern that many students are forced to opt for private PU colleges due to the shortage of government seats. This often results in higher financial burden on families, particularly in urban and semi-urban areas of the constituency.

Education activists argue that the imbalance between government and private institutions is affecting equitable access to education. They say government PU colleges play a crucial role in providing low-cost education, especially for students from rural and low-income households who aspire to pursue science, commerce, and arts streams.

Reports indicate that across the Belagavi district, demand for PU education continues to rise steadily, driven by increasing pass percentages and aspirations for professional courses like engineering, medicine, and commerce-related degrees.

Stakeholders have urged the state government and the Department of Pre-University Education to consider upgrading more high schools into PU colleges or establishing new government institutions in underserved areas such as Belagavi North.

They believe that expanding public PU infrastructure will help reduce dependence on private colleges, ensure greater inclusivity, and improve overall access to higher education opportunities in the region.

According to officials, the case has been filed against building owner Doggalli Shivakumar, an injured individual named Anil who is currently undergoing treatment, and representatives linked to a private gas company. The incident reportedly occurred due to a suspected gas cylinder leak that triggered an explosion.

Preliminary investigations suggest possible negligence in handling and safety compliance, prompting authorities to invoke relevant sections of law related to public safety and property damage. Police are examining whether proper safety protocols were followed in the storage and usage of the gas cylinder involved in the blast.

Contribution matters more than tenure: K. J. P. Hegde

UDUPI

Former minister K. Jayaprakash Hegde said that the effectiveness of a Prime Minister should be judged by contributions to the nation rather than the length of time spent in office, while addressing a press conference in Udupi.

Speaking during a media interaction linked to a Congress awareness campaign on the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls, he made critical remarks about the current voter list revision process and its possible impact on eligible voters.

Hegde stated that since the era of Jawaharlal Nehru, India has seen the creation of key institutions such as IITs, public sector enterprises, and advancements in atomic energy. He argued that leadership should be evaluated based on long-term nation-building outcomes.

He also criticized the central government, alleging that it failed to deliver on promises such as generating two crore jobs annually. He said welfare schemes introduced by state governments, including Karnataka's guarantee programmes, were responses to economic challenges faced by citizens.

Jayadeva Hospital clarifies patient care and staffing concerns

MYSURU

Dr. Dinesh, Director of Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research, Bengaluru said that the Jayadeva Hospital receives between 600 and 800 patients every day, of whom nearly 20 percent arrive in critical condition. The primary objective of the institution is to provide treatment and save lives. Patients are admitted based on medical necessity, and the hospital never prioritizes financial considerations over patient care.

He addressed a press conference here on Wednesday and clarified concerns regarding patient care, staffing, and recent reports about treatment outcomes. "Our institution does not look at a patient's financial status before treatment. We first provide the necessary medical care. The doctors here work with complete dedication to the profession".

Referring to the recent cases involving 11 patients, Dr. Dinesh explained that all of them had suffered severe heart attacks and were admitted after the crucial "golden hour" period had already passed. These patients were not admitted on the same day but were treated in the Intensive Care Unit with continuous medical supervision. All 11 patients were elderly and had arrived in extremely critical condition after battling for survival before reaching the hospital. Many of them were also suffering from additional complications such as diabetes. In such circumstances, the chances of survival are generally very low, estimated at around 9 percent.

Rejects allegations

Dr. Dinesh strongly rejected allegations of a shortage of doctors at the hospital, describing such claims as false and misleading. He clarified that there is no shortage of doctors in our hospital. Jayadeva has earned an international reputation for excellence in cardiac care. Some inaccurate reports have been circulated, but they do not reflect the reality. The hospital currently has 40 doctors, including 24 cardiologists, 10 anesthesiologists, one cardiac surgeon, and 10 postgraduate doctors.

He acknowledged that patient numbers have increased since last summer, creating a need for an additional 5 to 8 percent medical staff. A recruitment process to fill 24 doctor vacancies across the state is currently underway.

The State Government has also approved an expansion of 200 additional beds for the hospital, including 60 ICU beds, which is expected to significantly strengthen patient care facilities.

Sub-centre in Chamarajanagar

Looking ahead, Dr. Dinesh announced that a Jayadeva Sub-Centre will be established in Chamarajanagar district within the next two months. Similar sub-centres are planned in other surrounding districts to improve access to specialized cardiac care.

Reiterating the hospital's commitment, he said, "Whether a patient has money or not, Jayadeva Hospital's foremost priority is to provide treatment and save lives."

Greens flays Felling of over 30 trees near Kukkarahalli railway crossing

MYSURU

The environmental organization "Parisarakkaagi Naavu" has strongly condemned the Railway Department for allegedly cutting down more than 30 trees of various species along the railway tracks near the railway level crossing close to Kukkarahalli Lake in Mysuru.

A team of members from the organization visited the site on Wednesday and expressed outrage after witnessing the indiscriminate felling of several large trees estimated to be between 15 and 40 years old. The team demanded strict action against those responsible for the destruction.

The organization stated that railway regulations permit the pruning of tree branches and the removal of dried trees that pose a threat to railway operations, passenger safety, or overhead electrical lines, subject to permission from the Forest Department. However, it alleged that several healthy and mature trees located at a considerable distance from the railway tracks had been cut down without obtaining the required approval from the Forest Department.

According to the organization, the felling of these trees reflects negligence and a violation of legal procedures. It urged the Forest Department to initiate appropriate action against the Railway Department officials and staff responsible, under the provisions of the Tree Protection Act.

The organization also called upon the Divisional Railway Manager, Mysuru Division, South Western Railway, to conduct a departmental inquiry into the incident and take disciplinary action against the officials and staff involved in what it described as an irresponsible act and dereliction of duty.

The organization emphasized that at a time when global warming and climate change are having severe impacts on humans and all living beings, every tree is valuable. It noted that there is an urgent need to plant and nurture more trees rather than destroy existing ones. Citing Article 51A(g) of the Constitution of India, which makes environmental protection a fundamental duty of every citizen, the organization urged the Railway Department to discharge its responsibilities with greater environmental awareness.The delegation from "Parisarakkaagi Naavu" that visited the site included State General Secretary Parashuramegowda, active members Prof. Kalachannegowda, Leela Shivakumar, Prof. Shyamala, Vishwanath, Bhanu Prashanth, Sudheer Ganapathi, Sindhuvalli Akbar, Guruswamy, Hosahundi Krishna, Ganesh, Om Shivacharan, Sarthak, and Mahanthesh. "NO NEGLIGENCE, NO PANIC"

Minister Dr Patil backs Jayadeva doctors amid death rumours

MYSURU

Seeking to quell public anxiety over reports of eleven deaths at Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research, Mysuru, Medical Education Minister Dr. Sharan Prakash Patil categorically ruled out any negligence on the part of doctors and assured that the mortality rate at the institute remains within the national average.

The Minister visited the hospital on Wednesday after social media and media reports triggered concern among citizens regarding the deaths reported within a 24-hour period. Addressing the media, Dr. Patil said there was no reason for panic, explaining that most of the deceased patients had been admitted in an extremely critical condition just two to three days earlier. "Our doctors made every possible effort to save them. However, many patients were elderly and had reached the hospital at an advanced stage of illness. Unfortunately, despite the best treatment, not all lives could be saved," he said.

Emphasising the reputation of Jayadeva Hospital, Dr. Patil noted that the institution has earned national recognition for delivering high-quality and affordable cardiac care. Treatment at Jayadeva costs around ₹60,000, while similar procedures in private hospitals may cost nearly ₹2 lakh. Creating unnecessary panic only benefits private healthcare institutions," he remarked.

The Minister urged media organisations to seek clarification directly from him or the hospital administration before publishing alarming reports. To ensure complete transparency, he directed doctors at the Mysuru unit to prepare detailed mortality reports for each deceased patient. These reports will be submitted to the government and independently evaluated by a third-party expert committee.

"The review will establish whether any of these deaths could have been prevented. However, based on available information, there is no evidence of medical negligence," he asserted.

Decentralisation of powers

In a significant administrative announcement, Dr. Patil revealed that powers would be decentralised within the Jayadeva network. Medical Superintendents of the Mysuru and Kalaburagi units will now be empowered to take key decisions independently, reducing dependence on the Bengaluru headquarters and speeding up administrative processes.

The Minister also highlighted the shortage of specialist doctors and said the government is moving to fill vacant posts, including cardiologists and cardiac surgeons. Recruitment had been delayed due to issues related to internal reservation policies, but officials have now been directed to prepare the necessary roster and expedite appointments.

HAVERI

The work of widening the main road in Byadgi town has been completed successfully after years of public demand and planning. S.R. Patil, Vice President of State Guarantee Schemes, said the support from citizens, traders and building owners played an important role in completing the project smoothly.

The Sorab-Gajendragad road was declared a PWD road in 2008, and widening became necessary to meet growing needs. Farmers and traders from different districts visit Byadgi chilli market, causing heavy traffic and safety issues on the busy route.

The government started the widening project to reduce congestion and improve travel conditions. The clearance work was completed in about forty days with coordination between the district administration, municipality and officials.

He added that public cooperation is essential for transparent and smooth growth of Byadgi town. Another bypass road and ring road are needed to handle future traffic demands and support further development.

The project shows how cooperation between people and authorities can bring positive changes. Officials said such initiatives will help improve infrastructure and create safer roads for residents and visitors across the region.

BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has prepared an ambitious roadmap to transform the Bengaluru Metropolitan Region (BMR) into a global economic powerhouse by 2037. The plan aims to strengthen Bengaluru's position in technology, artificial intelligence, advanced manufacturing, innovation, and sustainable development.

A high-level meeting chaired by the Chief Secretary reviewed the roadmap prepared by the Institute for Sustainability, Employment and Growth Foundation. The initiative follows an agreement between the Karnataka government and the foundation to create a detailed regional economic development plan.

The proposed vision targets an economy of USD 390 to 420 billion and the creation of 2.5 to 3 million new jobs by 2037. The BMR, spread across 8,000 square kilometres with a population of around 1.5 crore people, currently has an economy of about USD 149 billion and contributes significantly to Karnataka's overall growth.

Officials said Bengaluru has emerged as a leading technology hub with millions of technology professionals, more than 1,000 Global Capability Centres, and thousands of startups. The region continues to grow in areas such as artificial intelligence, semiconductor design, aerospace, biotechnology, and research.

The government is planning new growth centres inside and outside the existing city limits to promote balanced development. These centres will include industries, information technology, research facilities, manufacturing units, logistics hubs, residential areas, and commercial spaces.

To improve connectivity and reduce traffic pressure, the plan includes major infrastructure projects. These include a 287-kilometre circular rail network, 400 to 500 kilometres of additional metro lines, new rapid transit corridors, expanded suburban rail services, and improved road and airport facilities.

Raj sees fierce political activity well before assembly elections

The intensity of rhetoric, revival of old rivalries, and the increasing frequency of public mobilisations suggest that state's political landscape is already in poll mode.

JAIPUR

Although the next Rajasthan Assembly elections are still more than two years away, the state's political atmosphere is increasingly resembling that of an election season.

Frequent political rallies, sharp exchanges between leaders, protests on public issues, and renewed debates over past controversies have intensified political activity, prompting discussions about whether the state has entered campaign mode much earlier than expected.

The latest political focus is the visit of Congress leader Rahul Gandhi to Kota, where he is set to launch the party's nationwide Chhatron Ki Goonj campaign. By selecting Kota, widely known as India's coaching and education hub, the Congress aims to broaden the discussion surrounding student concerns beyond recurring issues such as examination paper leaks, recruitment irregularities, and educational reforms.

Even before Gandhi's arrival, political tensions escalated. Congress leaders accused the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party of removing posters related to the event, an allegation rejected by BJP leaders. The ruling party described the Congress programme as a form of political tourism rather than a serious effort to engage with students and the public.

Simultaneously, Rajasthan has witnessed renewed tensions within the Congress itself. Former Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot and former Deputy Chief Minister Sachin Pilot have once again exchanged remarks regarding past political disputes. Gehlot revisited the 2020 political crisis and developments that unfolded in 2022, claiming that attempts were made to prevent him from contesting the Congress president's election. He maintained that the rebellion during that period was aimed at weakening his position.

Responding to the remarks, Pilot suggested that truthfulness could be judged by looking directly into a person's eyes. However, both leaders later sought to ease tensions. Pilot spoke of the cordial relationship between their families, while Gehlot recalled knowing Pilot since childhood and emphasized their long-standing association.

The political exchanges extended beyond Congress. Gehlot also targeted Union Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat, who responded by reviving allegations linked to the phone-tapping controversy that had generated significant debate during the previous Congress government. The issue gained further attention after former government official Lokesh Sharma made fresh claims related to alleged surveillance activities.

Meanwhile, Hanuman Beniwal, convenor of the Rashtriya Loktantrik Party, has intensified criticism of both the Congress and BJP. Beniwal has actively participated in protests across the state and has sought to position himself as a vocal advocate on several public issues.

Stringent measures in place in MP ahead of NEET-UG re-test

The NEET-UG re-exam to be held in 283 centres across 30 districts of the state from 2 pm to 5:15 pm on June 21.

BHOPAL

The Madhya Pradesh government has intensified preparations for the upcoming NEET-UG re-examination, implementing a series of stringent security measures aimed at ensuring the examination is conducted smoothly, fairly, and transparently.

CM reviews arrangements

Cief Minister Mohan Yadav on Wednesday reviewed the arrangements and directed officials to leave no room for irregularities during the nationwide medical entrance test.

Addressing reporters, the Chief Minister stated that the state government has been maintaining continuous coordination with the Central government regarding the examination process.

He emphasized that all arrangements are being made in accordance with guidelines issued by the Centre to prevent any recurrence of controversies and irregularities that had previously raised concerns among students and parents.

The NEET-UG re-examination is scheduled to be conducted at 283 examination centres spread across 30 districts of Madhya Pradesh. Given the scale of the examination and the large number of candidates expected to appear, the government has instructed district administrations to adopt comprehensive security and monitoring mechanisms.

During a review meeting with senior officials, Yadav directed the Higher Education Department to complete the installation of biometric verification systems, CCTV surveillance cameras, and signal jammers at all examination centres by June 19. These technologies are intended to strengthen identity verification procedures and prevent any form of electronic malpractice.

SBSP chief claims opposition defections may reshape Uttar Pradesh politics amid escalating allegations and speculation.

Rajbhar predicts major rift in UP SP, claims leaders eye BJP

LUCKNOW

Political temperatures rose sharply in Uttar Pradesh on Wednesday after minister and Suheldev Bharatiya Samaj Party chief Om Prakash Rajbhar claimed that the Samajwadi Party could soon face an internal split, with several leaders and MPs 'preparing' to join the ruling BJP.

His remarks have sparked fresh political debate in the state, where preparations for future electoral battles are already intensifying.

Drawing comparisons with political developments witnessed in West Bengal and Maharashtra, he suggested that Uttar Pradesh could soon experience a similar realignment within opposition ranks.

Rajbhar said a recent interaction involving senior Samajwadi Party leader Ram Gopal Yadav and Home Minister Amit Shah indicated possible unrest within the opposition party. He alleged that a letter submitted by Ram Gopal Yadav contained information regarding party leaders and MPs who may be considering a political switch.

The minister claimed that if the letter did not contain details of potential defectors, there would be no reason to keep its contents confidential. He challenged the Samajwadi Party leadership to make the document public and clarify its purpose. However, no official confirmation has emerged regarding the existence or contents of any such letter.

He said developments similar to those seen in parties such as the Trinamool Congress and factions of the Shiv Sena could occur within the Samajwadi Party. His comments have added to speculation about the stability of opposition alliances and internal dynamics ahead of future polls.

The minister also linked his allegations to ongoing discussions surrounding past controversies, including the alleged mining scam and the Gomti River Front project case. In a social media post earlier in the day, he suggested that increasing scrutiny of these matters could be contributing to anxiety within sections of the opposition.

The remarks were directed at the party led by former Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Akhilesh Yadav. Rajbhar alleged that political pressure and investigations could trigger shifts in loyalty among some leaders, although he did not provide concrete evidence to support his claims.

He criticized the SP's recent outreach efforts toward the Brahmins and argued that certain controversial statements made by party representatives had damaged its relationship with sections of the electorate and could undermine attempts to broaden its support base.

Shiv Sena-UBT's Priyanka Chaturvedi Backs Sanjay Raut's Allegation

NEW DELHI

Shiv Sena-UBT leader Priyanka Chaturvedi on Wednesday backed party MP Sanjay Raut's allegation that monetary transactions were involved to lure party leaders into the Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena, calling it Operation Betrayal.

In a series of posts on X, Raut had sarcastically said: Apna Sapna Money Money! It's shocking and revolting that Maharashtra MPs are reportedly being offered Rs 15 crore each tonight to switch sides.

Chaturvedi said: If he (Raut) has made such a claim, he must have received some information, which is why he is speaking about it.

Referring to the rift within the Trinamool Congress, she said: If we look at the entire background and the way these issues have repeatedly surfaced, including what happened with the Trinamool Congress, and how MP Mahua Moitra has spoken about the kind of adjustments that were made with her and with other MPs, I would not be surprised by such allegations.

Even the kids in Maharashtra now know that today honesty can be bought as well as sold (with money), she remarked.Chaturvedi asserted that it is not justified if somebody who has won on a particular party's symbol later says that 'I won't give up my seat but will leave the party'. And this is happening for the second time in two years, she said, citing the previous split in the Shiv Sena.I will call it Operation Betrayal (rather than Operation Tiger), the Shiv Sena-UBT leader said.She added: It is very simple, if someone is disappointed (in the party), he or she can resign and again contest on their own. The (Lok Sabha) Speaker is a constitutional post, so we met him to convey our stand.She said that even now, the case between both factions of the Shiv Sena is underway in the Supreme Court.

AUTOMATIC WEATHER MONITORING STATION BECOMES OPERATIONAL IN J&K'S KISHTWAR

JAMMU

Weather forecasting capabilities in Jammu and Kashmir have received a significant boost with an automatic weather monitoring station in Kishtwar district becoming operational on Wednesday, Met Department officials said.

Officials said the newly operational facility in the remote Machail region of Kishtwar is providing real-time meteorological data, a development expected to enhance weather forecasting, climate observation, and early warning mechanisms in the mountainous area.

The installation assumes particular importance given Machail's rugged topography and its vulnerability to rapidly changing weather conditions.

Accurate and timely weather information is expected to assist authorities in monitoring atmospheric conditions and issuing advisories whenever required.

According to officials, the station will continuously record key weather parameters, including temperature, rainfall, humidity, wind speed, and other meteorological indicators, thereby strengthening the region's forecasting network.

Officials said the weather station forms part of broader efforts to augment meteorological infrastructure in remote and strategically important regions of Jammu and Kashmir.

Woman Maoist leader carrying Rs 10 lakh reward surrenders before Kolkata police

KOLKATA

In a major success for the West Bengal police, top Maoist leader Shakuntala Mahato alias Pushpa surrendered before Kolkata Police on Wednesday afternoon, officials said.

She had fled from the Saranda forest in Jharkhand during the operation by the joint forces. Amid speculation about her hiding in West Bengal, the Maoist leader and CPI (Maoist) zonal committee member on Wednesday surrendered at Kolkata Police headquarters in Lalbazar along with arms and 46 rounds of bullets. She had a bounty of Rs 10 lakh on her head.

Give up arms, join mainstream: Shakuntala

Bhagwat highlights Maharana Pratap's legacy of resistance

At an event in Udaipur, the RSS chief hails Maharana Pratap's struggle, emphasizing national resilience and historical resistance against invaders.

JAIPUR

Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh chief Mohan Bhagwat on Wednesday said that India's history is not a story of submission but one of continuous resistance against foreign invasions.

Speaking at a gathering in Udaipur, Bhagwat highlighted the legacy of Maharana Pratap and described the Battle of Haldighati as a symbol of collective societal determination to preserve freedom, self-respect, and cultural identity.

Bhagwat was addressing the 'Rashtra Chetna Sankalp Sabha' organized at the Gandhi Maidan in Udaipur to commemorate the 486th birth anniversary of Maharana Pratap and the 450th anniversary of the Battle of Haldighati. The event drew participants from various sections of society who gathered to pay tribute to the celebrated Rajput ruler.

During his address, Bhagwat said that Maharana Pratap's birth anniversary is now observed across the country with pride and reverence. According to him, this widespread remembrance demonstrates that the nation continues to honor historical figures who dedicated their lives to protecting independence, cultural values, and national dignity during challenging times.

The RSS chief stated that the Battle of Haldighati was not merely a military confrontation involving Maharana Pratap and his forces but represented the resistance of an entire society against external domination. He emphasized that despite possessing limited financial resources, a smaller army, and fewer military advantages, Maharana Pratap refused to surrender or compromise his principles.

Bhagwat noted that the Mughal Empire enjoyed significant advantages during the conflict, including superior manpower, resources, and weaponry. However, he argued that Maharana Pratap's determination and commitment to the cause of freedom allowed him to continue resisting despite overwhelming odds.

Referring to historical accounts, Bhagwat said that even records written by Mughal historians indicate that Mughal forces faced difficulties during various phases of the conflict. He argued that such accounts raise important questions about conventional interpretations of the battle and who ultimately emerged victorious.

According to Bhagwat, Indian society has historically demonstrated a strong spirit of resistance whenever attempts were made to impose foreign control.

He maintained that throughout history, efforts to dominate the country were met with immediate opposition from local rulers, communities, and ordinary citizens determined to preserve their autonomy. The RSS chief also remarked that historical events have often been interpreted through particular narratives over time.

Aadhaar enrolment surpasses population: Himanta Sarma

Guwahati

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Wednesday raised concerns over Aadhaar enrolment figures in certain districts of the state, claiming that the number of Aadhaar cards issued has exceeded the projected population in some areas, a development he described as a potential demographic red flag in the border state. In a post on the social media platform X, CM Sarma said that Aadhaar saturation in a few districts has crossed the 100 per cent mark, indicating that more Aadhaar cards have been issued than the estimated population of those districts. In certain districts of Assam, Aadhaar enrolment has surpassed the total population, which in a border state like ours, reeks of a larger demographic conspiracy, the Chief Minister wrote.

Agencies flag Gujjar's growing role in ISI driven by money

New Delhi

The ISI has managed to stitch together a well-oiled network of gangsters to carry out attacks in India. The name of Shahzad Bhatti has cropped up in several cases that the police are investigating. Officials say that while Bhatti runs the show of planning and execution, his close aide, Ajmal Gujjar, is in charge of the smuggling network. Gujjar operates out of Pakistan and is a key player in this racket, officials also say. Gujjar operates under the ISI and was roped in to assist Bhatti. An Intelligence Bureau official says that both Bhatti and Gujjar run the network that has been tasked with carrying out attacks in India. Bhatti, who was an influencer before being roped in by the ISI, handles all operations on social media.

PM to disburse employment incentives under PM-VBRY

NEW DELHI

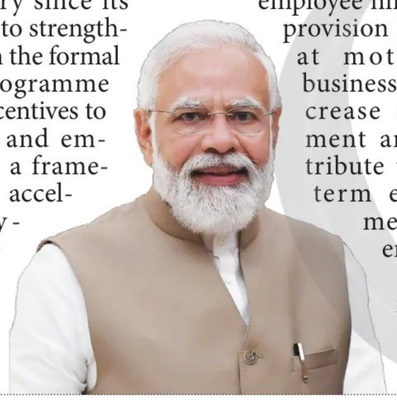
Prime Minister Narendra Modi will disburse incentives worth approximately Rs 2,400 crore under the Pradhan Mantri Viksit Bharat Rozgar Yojana (PM-VBRY) during a special programme scheduled for Friday.

The initiative is part of the government's broader strategy to promote formal employment, support first-time workers, and encourage businesses to generate new jobs.

According to the Prime Minister's Office, the scheme has already contributed to the creation of nearly 15 lakh employment opportunities across the country since its launch. Designed to strengthen participation in the formal economy, the programme offers financial incentives to both employees and employers, creating a framework intended to accelerate employment-led economic growth.

One of the key features of the scheme is support for first-time employees entering the workforce. Eligible beneficiaries can receive incentives of up to Rs 15,000, providing financial assistance during the early stages of their careers. The government believes that such support can ease the transition into formal employment while encouraging more young people to join organized sectors of the economy.

The scheme also provides benefits to employers who create additional jobs. Companies and establishments that expand their workforce are eligible to receive incentives of up to Rs 3,000 per month for every additional employee hired. This provision is aimed at motivating businesses to increase recruitment and contribute to long-term employment generation.



Recognizing the crucial role of manufacturing in economic development, the programme offers extended support to employers operating in the manufacturing sector. Such employers can avail incentives for a period of four years, while businesses in other sectors are eligible for benefits for two years. The government expects this approach to encourage industrial expansion and strengthen India's manufacturing ecosystem.

Introduced in August 2025, the Pradhan Mantri Viksit Bharat Rozgar Yojana has a total financial outlay of Rs 99,446 crore. The scheme is designed to facilitate the creation of more than 3.5 crore jobs over a two-year period. Of the projected beneficiaries, approximately 1.92 crore are expected to be first-time entrants into the workforce, highlighting the programme's focus on youth employment.

Government officials describe the initiative as a significant step toward expanding formal employment opportunities and increasing social security coverage for workers.

MCOCA CASE: DELHI COPS GETS SC NOTICE ON CONMAN'S WIFE'S BAIL PLEA

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Wednesday issued notice to the Delhi Police on a bail plea filed by Leena Maria Paul, wife of alleged conman Sukesh Chandrashekhar, in a case registered under the stringent Maharashtra Control of Organised Crime Act (MCOCA) arising out of the Rs 200 crore extortion racket.

A bench of Justices Joymalya Bagchi and Vipul M. Pancholi sought a response from the Delhi Police and posted the matter for further hearing on July 27.

Paul has challenged a Delhi High Court judgment refusing her regular bail in the MCOCA case linked to the alleged extortion syndicate headed by Chandrashekhar.

However, she had earlier secured bail in the parallel money laundering proceedings investigated by the Enforcement Directorate (ED).

According to the prosecution, the case stems from an FIR registered by the Delhi Police Special Cell in August 2021 on a complaint alleging that Chandrashekhar and his associates extorted around Rs 217 crore from the wife of a businessman on the pretext of securing legal relief for her husband. The prosecution further alleged that Chandrashekhar operated the extortion network from jail with the help of associates and corrupt prison officials, while Paul played an active role in handling and channelising the proceeds of crime.In a judgment delivered on May 5, the Delhi High Court had declined to grant bail to Paul, holding that the allegations and material on record prima facie indicated her involvement in the activities of the alleged organised crime syndicate.

A single-judge Bench of Justice Prateek Jalan observed that an earlier Delhi High Court judgment had already recorded prima facie findings that Paul was involved in running an organised crime syndicate since 2013 with the motive of pecuniary gain by cheating and extortion.

The judge further recorded that she was allegedly in continuous contact with Chandrashekhar while he was lodged in jail, coordinated with his associates, facilitated disposal of crime proceeds and made the payment for the 'Silent Calling App' used by Chandrashekhar to allegedly commit the foundational crime of extortion.

G7 leaders back truce, energy route diversification

G7 nations endorsed diplomatic efforts, urged regional stability, and sought alternative energy routes amid tensions.

EVIAN-LES-BAINS

Leaders of the Group of Seven (G7) countries on Wednesday called for a ceasefire in Lebanon and pledged to diversify global energy supply routes to reduce dependence on the strategically important Strait of Hormuz.

The announcement came as world powers welcomed an interim agreement between the United States and Iran aimed at ending months of conflict and creating a pathway toward a permanent peace settlement.

The G7 summit was held in the French resort town of Evian-les-Bains, located on the shores of Lake Geneva. Discussions were dominated by the ongoing crisis involving Iran and the wider Middle East. Leaders gathered as details of a ceasefire arrangement between Washington and Tehran gradually emerged ahead of its expected formal unveiling in Switzerland later this week.

According to officials, the interim agreement is intended to launch broader negotiations that could eventually bring a complete end to the war. The conflict has reportedly claimed more than 7,000 lives, with the majority of casualties occurring in Iran and Lebanon. The humanitarian impact of the war has raised growing concerns among the international community and intensified calls for a lasting resolution.

In a joint statement, G7 leaders emphasized the importance of continued negotiations and stressed that any final settlement must address concerns surrounding Iran's regional activities and nuclear ambitions. The statement reiterated the group's position that Iran must never acquire a nuclear weapon and called for diplomatic efforts to ensure long-term stability in the region.

The summit also provided an opportunity for United States President Donald Trump to present the framework of the agreement to fellow leaders from Britain, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, and Japan. While these countries largely share concerns regarding Iran's nuclear program, many had previously expressed reservations about the decision to engage in military conflict.

The leaders signaled their readiness to support implementation of the accord. A coalition led by Britain and France is expected to assist in securing international shipping routes once the Strait of Hormuz reopens, which is anticipated later this week. The waterway remains one of the world's most critical energy transit corridors.

The memorandum of understanding signed by Washington and Tehran reportedly extends an earlier ceasefire by an additional 60 days, allowing negotiators time to pursue a permanent truce.

LEADERS REAFFIRM SUPPORT TO UKRAINE, TIGHTEN RUSSIA PRESSURE

EVIAN-LES-BAINS

Leaders of the Group of Seven (G7) nations on Wednesday presented a united front in support of Ukraine, signaling stronger backing for Kyiv while discussing additional measures to increase pressure on Russia.

The developments came during the G7 summit held in the French resort town of Evian-les-Bains, where global security, economic stability, and ongoing geopolitical conflicts dominated the agenda.

United States President Donald Trump drew attention during the summit when he jokingly remarked, I'm the boss, while joining fellow leaders at a session focused on global economic security.

Although made in a light-hearted manner, the comment reflected the significant influence Washington continues to wield within the alliance as major powers coordinate responses to international crises.

The summit produced a joint statement emphasizing support for Ukraine at a time when the country has reported improved battlefield performance against Russian forces. Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskiy and his allies arrived at the gathering seeking to convince Western partners that Ukraine's military efforts have strengthened its position and that Moscow should not be allowed to dictate the terms of any future peace agreement.

The statement is being viewed as a diplomatic boost for Kyiv and a sign that the United States may be taking a firmer stance toward Russia. For several years, Trump had been perceived as skeptical of some arguments advanced by Ukraine and its supporters.

Netanyahu faces mounting challenges prior to elections

JERUSALEM

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu is heading into a crucial election season facing growing political pressure as an interim agreement between the United States and Iran reshapes the regional landscape and raises fresh questions about his leadership. With national elections required to be called by October, the veteran leader must now convince voters that his handling of multiple conflicts and Israel's strategic alliances has strengthened the country despite mounting criticism.

Netanyahu, 76, recently confirmed his intention to seek another term in office. However, opinion polls suggest his right-wing coalition could struggle to retain power. While his long political career and ability to build governing alliances have repeatedly defied expectations, analysts believe this election may be among the most challenging he has faced.The latest complication stems from United States President Donald Trump's decision to pursue an interim peace arrangement with Iran and efforts to end conflicts involving Iran and Lebanon. The development has led critics to argue that Israel's military.

DUBAI

A $300 billion private fund designed to trigger investment into Iran is outlined in the U.S.-Iran framework agreement and more than half that sum has already been committed, a source with direct knowledge of the deal told Reuters.

The fund is designed to give both sides an economic incentive to conclude a final deal to end the war, said the source, who spoke on condition of anonymity because the plan has not yet been announced as Washington and Tehran prepare to sign on Friday.

The fund's existence has been previously reported but Reuters is revealing for the first time that more than half of the amount has already been committed and that it will be comprised entirely of private-sector funds.

U.S. and Iranian officials said on Sunday they had agreed on a framework to end their war, which began when U.S. and Israeli forces attacked Iran on February 28, halt the U.S. blockade of Iran and reopen the Strait of Hormuz, a key supply route for global oil and gas.

The new fund is a private investment vehicle, not a reconstruction or reparations programme and will not include any government money or grants, the source said, adding that companies based in the U.S., the Gulf Arab states, Asia, South America and Africa have agreed to commit financing.

Investments pledged span energy, logistics, manufacturing and transport, the source said.

Immigrant detention deaths rise amid deportation crackdown

WASHINGTON

The number of deaths in United States immigration detention facilities has risen sharply since President Donald Trump launched a large-scale deportation campaign in January 2025, according to official records reviewed by news organizations and researchers.

The increase has sparked renewed concerns about medical care, mental health support, and overall conditions within detention centers housing tens of thousands of migrants.

Recent cases have highlighted the human toll inside the detention system. A Vietnamese detainee with cardiovascular problems reportedly collapsed and died at a repurposed maximum-security prison in Indiana that is now being used to hold immigrants.

In Pennsylvania, a Chinese detainee who had previously attempted suicide was found dead after hanging himself in a detention facility shower. In New York, a Honduran man suffering from alcohol withdrawal symptoms and an elevated heart rate died in his cell without receiving emergency medical intervention.

According to Immigration and Customs Enforcement records, 50 people have died while in immigration detention since the beginning of 2025. Data obtained through public records requests and analyzed by researchers indicate that the rate of deaths in detention has increased significantly compared to previous years.

Between 2009 and 2024, immigration detention facilities recorded approximately one death annually for every 3,848 detainees based on average daily populations. Preliminary figures through early June 2025 suggest the rate has more than doubled, reaching roughly one death for every 1,630 detainees. While experts caution that deaths can occur for a variety of reasons and do not automatically indicate negligence, they say the trend warrants closer examination. The data was obtained by the Deportation Data Project and processed by the Vera Institute of Justice, a nonprofit organization focused on criminal justice reform and incarceration issues.

Immigration detention populations have increased steadily in recent years. During the administration of former U.S. President Joe Biden, enforcement measures expanded amid political pressure over border security.

The detention population rose from a pandemic-era low of approximately 14,000 detainees in early 2021 to around 40,000 by the time Trump returned to office.Following the launch of the current administration's deportation campaign, the detained population surged to nearly 70,000 people before declining to about 57,000 by early June. Experts reviewing detention records have expressed concern that facilities may be struggling to keep pace with the growing number of detainees.

Norway crown princess undergoes lung transplant

OSLO

Norway's Crown Princess Mette-Marit has undergone a successful lung transplant and will remain in hospital for several weeks as she begins her recovery, doctors at Oslo University Hospital said on Wednesday.

The 52-year-old wife of Crown Prince Haakon, heir to the Norwegian throne, was diagnosed with pulmonary fibrosis in 2018, a chronic disease that causes scarring in the lungs and reduces oxygen uptake.

The hospital said the transplant had so far been successful, in a statement provided by the palace, but without specifying exactly when the procedure took place.

Like all newly transplanted patients, the crown princess will remain at the hospital for several weeks to come, Oslo University Hospital Professor Are Holm said.

The time would be spent adjusting medication, managing potential complications and beginning physical rehabilitation, he said. The surgery comes at a strained time for the royal family: earlier this week, Mette-Marit's 29-year-old son from a previous relationship, Marius Borg Hoiby, was convicted of rape and domestic violence and sentenced to four years in prison. Hoiby plans to appeal, his lawyer has said.

He was received by Dr. Thumbay Moideen, Founder President of Thumbay Group, along with senior academic and healthcare leaders of the institution.

During the visit, he toured key facilities including Gulf Medical University and Thumbay's teaching hospitals, observing how education, patient care, and research function together within the same campus.

He also reviewed the growth of the institution, which began as a single college in 1998 and has now expanded into a global hub attracting students from more than 111 countries.

A meeting was later held between Dr. Moideen and the Minister at Thumbay University Hospital, where discussions focused on the role of private healthcare and education in strengthening the UAE's knowledge economy. They also discussed medical research, life sciences, and the country's ambition to become a global destination for talent, innovation, and investment.

The Minister said Thumbay Group plays an important role in advancing healthcare services and medical education in the UAE and supports national goals under the 'We the UAE 2031' vision.

He added that the institution reflects the country's broader aim of improving healthcare quality and strengthening global partnerships in the sector.

Dr. Moideen expressed gratitude for the visit, saying it reinforces the importance of healthcare education and research in the UAE's long-term economic development.

Real Madrid sign Bernardo Silva on free transfer

Real Madrid have signed Portuguese midfielder Bernardo Silva on a free transfer from Manchester City on a two-year deal

MADRID

Real Madrid have signed Portuguese star Bernardo Silva on a free transfer after his contract with Manchester City ended. The 31-year-old midfielder has agreed to a two-year deal with the Spanish club. This move marks the latest addition to manager Jose Mourinho's rebuilding plan. Silva joins fellow new signing Marc Cucurella from Chelsea, while defender Antonio Rudiger has also signed a contract extension.

Silva spent nine successful years at Manchester City, where he became one of the club's greatest players. He played 460 matches and scored 76 goals, helping City win 20 major trophies. His collection includes six Premier League titles, one Champions League, three FA Cups, and many more honors. Known for his creativity and hard work, Silva was a favorite of manager Pep Guardiola. He played a big part in City's historic Treble-winning season in 2022-23. In his final year, he even captained the team to more cup successes.

The Portuguese international knows Real Madrid well, having faced them 13 times and scored four goals against them in the Champions League, including a memorable brace in a 4-0 win. Now, Silva brings his experience and winning spirit to the Santiago Bernabeu. Mourinho hopes the midfielder's skills will help Real bounce back after a tough 2025-26 season where they missed the LaLiga title and exited the Champions League early.

Fans are excited about this smart signing, which adds quality and leadership to the squad without costing a transfer fee. Silva's journey from City to Madrid promises fresh excitement in Spanish football.

Australia's disciplined bowling attack restricted Bangladesh to 77/8, securing a dominant victory at Headingley in Match 9 of the Women's T20 World Cup

GARTH, MOLINEUX LEAD AUSTRALIA'S BOWLING ATTACK

LEEDS

Australia produced a dominant bowling display as Bangladesh were restricted to 77/8 in 20 overs in Match 9 of the ICC Women's T20 World Cup 2026 at Headingley. Captain Nigar Sultana played a lone hand with 27 runs, but struggled to build support as wickets kept falling around her. Australia's bowlers Kim Garth, Sophie Molineux, Ellyse Perry, Georgia Wareham, and Annabel Sutherland shared wickets with tight lines and discipline.

Garth struck early, removing Dilara Akhtar for a duck, while Molineux and Perry added key breakthroughs in the middle overs. Bangladesh never recovered, reaching only 22/3 in the powerplay as pressure mounted on their batting lineup. Nigar Sultana and Ritu Moni attempted a rebuild, but Australia continued to tighten control through accurate seam bowling.

Ritu Moni scored 16 before being dismissed by Georgia Wareham, while Sultana fell for 27 trying to attack Sophie Molineux. Bangladesh were bowled out for a modest total as Australia sealed a convincing victory with disciplined finishing in final overs. Ellyse Perry finished with two wickets, while Molineux and Garth also claimed two each, underlining Australia's strong depth in bowling attack.

Australia's win strengthens their position in the tournament and sends a strong message to other teams competing for the title. Bangladesh will look to regroup quickly, as they search for consistency in their remaining group matches after a tough outing against the defending champions. Headingley offered helpful seam conditions throughout, making batting difficult and rewarding disciplined bowling efforts from Australia's attack on the day.

NEW DELHI

FIFA President Gianni Infantino has praised Lionel Messi for equalling the all-time World Cup goal scoring record with a brilliant hat-trick. Austria ends 28 year wait with 3-1 WC Win

SANTA CLARA

Austria marked their return to the FIFA World Cup after 28 years with a hard-fought 3-1 win over debutants Jordan at the San Francisco Bay Area Stadium. The Europeans took the lead in the 20th minute when Romano Schmid smashed a powerful shot from the edge of the box. Jordan fought back bravely after the break as Ali Olwan scored a brilliant solo goal, becoming the first Jordanian to net at a World Cup. Austria regained the lead when Jordan defender Yazan Al Arab unfortunately headed the ball into his own net. Veteran striker Marko Arnautovic sealed the victory with a cool penalty in the 12th minute of added time. Interestingly, this result continued an unusual record for Austria, they have now played 30 World Cup matches without a single goalless draw.

Jordan started the game with plenty of energy and created early chances, but Austria's experience and finishing proved decisive. The match was full of drama, including a VAR review that disallowed an earlier Arnautovic goal for handball in the build-up. The win gives Austria a strong start in their group while Jordan, despite the defeat, earned respect for their spirited debut on the big stage.

Norway mirror 1994 World Cup line-up

MASSACHUSETTS

Norway created a rare moment in football history after becoming the first team in FIFA World Cup history to field three players whose fathers also played in the tournament, during their match against Iraq in the ongoing 2026 edition. Stars Erling Haaland, Alexander Sørloth, and Kristian Thorstvedt all featured together for Norway, continuing a unique family legacy that links back 32 years.

In the 1994 FIFA World Cup held in the United States, Norway had also fielded their fathers - Alf-Inge Haaland, Gøran Sørloth, and Erik Thorstvedt, in the same tournament match against Italy, making this modern moment even more symbolic. On the field, Norway delivered a strong performance, defeating Iraq 4-1. Haaland marked his World Cup debut with two goals and played a key role in several attacking moves.

Norway took the lead in the 29th minute when Haaland finished a low cross, but Iraq briefly equalised through Aymen Hussein's header. Before half-time, Haaland restored Norway's advantage after pressuring the Iraqi goalkeeper into an error.

In the second half, Leo Østigård added a third goal from a corner, before an own goal by Iraq sealed the result in stoppage time. Despite some early pressure from Iraq, Norway stayed in control for most of the match and showed strong finishing quality.

Insurance demand stays strong despite regulatory uncertainty

New Delhi

India's insurance sector is navigating regulatory uncertainty, but its long-term growth prospects remain robust, according to a report by Kotak Institutional Equities. The brokerage noted that evolving regulations may create short-term challenges for insurers, affecting product structures, distribution models, and profitability. However, fundamental demand drivers continue to support the sector's expansion. Rising income levels, increasing financial awareness, growing protection needs, and low insurance penetration are expected to sustain demand over the coming years. The report highlighted that demographic trends and expanding access to insurance products will further strengthen industry growth. Despite near-term policy-related concerns, the sector remains well-positioned to benefit from India's long-term economic and financial development.

India's annual defence production has surged to ₹1.78 lakh crore in 2025–26, marking a significant milestone in the country's push toward self-reliance in the defence sector.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh said the "remarkable rise" in domestic defence manufacturing reflects the combined efforts of the Ministry of Defence, public sector undertakings, private industry, and startups contributing to the broader ecosystem.

As per official estimates, the sharp rise in output highlights India's accelerating progress under the "Aatmanirbhar Bharat", which aims to reduce dependency on imports and strengthen indigenous capabilities across land, air, and naval systems.

Over the past several years, defence production has expanded steadily due to policy reforms, increased private sector participation, and greater emphasis on indigenisation. The sector has also benefited from simplified procurement procedures and incentives for local manufacturing.

Officials noted that a growing share of defence equipment is now being produced domestically, ranging from artillery systems and combat vehicles to advanced electronics and aerospace components. This shift has also supported the development of a wider supply chain ecosystem involving micro, small, and medium enterprises (MSMEs).

The government has also focused on boosting defence exports, which have grown alongside domestic production. India is increasingly supplying equipment to friendly foreign nations, reflecting improved competitiveness of its defence industry.

Experts say the rise in production not only strengthens national security but also contributes to economic growth by generating employment, encouraging technological innovation, and attracting investment into high-tech manufacturing.

The defence sector is expected to remain a key pillar of India's industrial strategy, with continued emphasis on modernization, research and development, and public-private collaboration.

Officials believe that sustaining this momentum will be crucial for meeting future security challenges while positioning India as a major global defence manufacturing hub in the coming years.

SUMMARY

- The growth is driven by Aatmanirbhar Bharat manufacturing push.
- Registers strong growth in domestic defence ecosystem.
- Rising exports boost India's global defence role.
- MSMEs and private sector key contributors.

Policy stability boosts India's appeal for global investors

NEW DELHI

Union Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal has urged global investors, corporates, and venture capital funds to actively invest in India, stating that they should "get into action" before missing emerging opportunities in the country's fast-growing economy.

Speaking at a business engagement event, Goyal emphasized that India's investment ecosystem is now well-developed, supported by strong policy frameworks, a large domestic consumer base, and a rapidly expanding startup landscape. He added that the government is committed to facilitating investor access to markets and enabling smoother business operations.

He highlighted that Indian startups are delivering strong performance across multiple sectors, including technology, manufacturing, fintech, and digital services. According to him, the country already has several "tried and tested" business models that demonstrate scalability and global competitiveness.

Goyal noted that India's large and young population offers a significant consumption base, making it one of the most attractive markets for long-term investment. He also pointed to ongoing reforms aimed at improving ease of doing business, attracting foreign capital, and strengthening infrastructure.

Rupee rises 31 paise on improved global risk outlook

MUMBAI

Rupee strengthens to 94.29 against US dollar as falling crude oil prices and improved global sentiment boost forex market confidence and inflows.

The Indian rupee strengthened in early trade on Wednesday, rising 31 paise to 94.29 against the US dollar, supported by easing crude oil prices and improved global risk sentiment.

Forex traders said the domestic currency opened on a firm note as Brent crude slipped to near $79 per barrel, a three-month low.

The decline in oil prices has been driven by expectations of improved supply conditions, including potential geopolitical developments that could ease tensions in key energy routes such as the Strait of Hormuz.

Lower crude oil prices typically support the rupee by reducing India's import bill, as the country remains one of the world's largest oil importers.

The recent slide in global oil benchmarks has also eased concerns over inflationary pressures and external account stability.

In addition, a softer US dollar in global markets has provided further support to emerging market currencies, including the rupee.

Improved investor sentiment and reduced volatility have contributed to increased inflows into domestic equity markets, adding strength to the currency.

Market participants also noted that expectations of steady foreign investment inflows and a narrowing trade deficit have helped reinforce positive momentum for the rupee.

Domestic economic fundamentals, including strong growth projections and resilient capital markets, continue to support currency stability.

Analysts said that while short-term volatility cannot be ruled out, the rupee is likely to remain sensitive to global crude oil movements, US Federal Reserve policy signals, and geopolitical developments. On the domestic front, equity markets traded higher in early sessions, reflecting broader optimism across asset classes.

The currency's gains align with improved sentiment in both equity and commodity markets as investors respond to easing global risks.

SpaceX IPO Success Highlights Growing Convergence of Satellites, Connectivity and Artificial Intelligence, Driving Investor Interest in Future Technologies

SPACEX IPO SHATTERS RECORDS AT $1.7 TRILLION VALUATION

NEW DELHI

The blockbuster initial public offering (IPO) of SpaceX has drawn global attention not only for its record-breaking valuation but also for what it represents: the growing convergence of satellite technology, connectivity infrastructure, and artificial intelligence (AI). According to analysts at Nomura, the successful listing underscores how these three sectors are increasingly becoming interconnected and are expected to shape the future digital economy.

SpaceX's historic IPO raised approximately USD 75 billion and pushed the company's valuation beyond USD 1.7 trillion, making it the largest public offering in history. Investor enthusiasm reflects confidence in the company's ability to combine space-based communications through its satellite network, advanced AI capabilities, and next-generation computing infrastructure.

A major driver of this optimism is Starlink, which has become one of the world's largest satellite broadband networks. Starlink's expanding global coverage demonstrates how satellite systems can bridge connectivity gaps while supporting data-intensive AI applications.

Nomura highlighted that future growth opportunities lie in integrating AI with satellite networks. SpaceX has outlined plans for orbital AI computing infrastructure, including data centers in space powered by solar energy and supported by satellite constellations. Such projects aim to address growing demand for computing power while overcoming some limitations of terrestrial data centers.

The IPO also signals broader investor interest in companies operating at the intersection of space technology, digital connectivity, and AI. Analysts believe the success of SpaceX could encourage similar public offerings from leading AI firms and accelerate investment in next-generation communications infrastructure.

As AI adoption expands worldwide, the combination of satellites, connectivity networks, and advanced computing is expected to become a defining theme of the technology sector, with SpaceX positioned at the center of this transformation.

Indian-origin cursor cofounder joins billionaire elite club

New Delhi

Indian-origin entrepreneur Aman Sanger has emerged as one of the youngest technology billionaires after a landmark acquisition deal in the artificial intelligence sector significantly boosted his wealth.

Sanger, 25, the cofounder and chief operating officer of Anysphere, has seen his estimated net worth rise to $5.5 billion following a $60 billion all-stock merger agreement under which SpaceX will acquire the company behind the popular AI coding platform Cursor.

The deal marks a major milestone for Anysphere, a startup founded in 2022 by Sanger and his former classmates from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The founders left the prestigious institution to pursue their vision of transforming software development through artificial intelligence.Initially focused on building an AI copilot for the mechanical engineering sector, the company later pivoted to software development tools. The shift proved highly successful, with Cursor becoming one of the fastest-growing AI coding platforms globally. The platform enables developers to analyze entire codebases, generate complex code solutions, and automate software engineering tasks.

Born in New York, Sanger began programming at the age of 14 and later studied computer science at MIT. Alongside cofounders Michael Truell, Sualeh Asif and Arvid Lunnemark, he helped build Cursor into a major enterprise software platform.

The company's growth has been remarkable. Cursor surpassed $1 billion in annualised revenue in late 2025 and reportedly reached approximately $4 billion in annualised revenue by early June 2026. The platform is now used by millions of developers across nearly 50,000 enterprises, including major technology firms such as NVIDIA, Adobe, Uber, Shopify and PayPal.

Reacting to the acquisition announcement, Sanger expressed excitement about advancing AI development, while SpaceX expects the transaction to be completed by the third quarter of 2026. The deal further highlights the growing convergence of artificial intelligence, software development, and advanced technology infrastructure.

Market cap of BSE-listed firms reclaim USD 5-tn mark

MUMBAI

The combined market capitalisation of all companies listed on the BSE Sensex crossed the $5 trillion mark on Wednesday, hitting its highest level in nearly six weeks as domestic equities extended their rally amid easing geopolitical tensions and falling crude oil prices.

The surge in market value reflects a broad-based recovery in Indian equities over recent trading sessions, supported by improving investor sentiment following progress in global diplomatic efforts, including a proposed US-Iran peace agreement. The decline in global oil prices has further strengthened confidence by easing concerns over inflation and import costs.

Analysts noted that lower crude prices and reduced volatility have improved overall risk appetite, leading to sustained buying across equity segments. In the past four trading sessions alone, BSE-listed firms have added more than 6% in market capitalisation, signalling strong momentum in the broader market.

While benchmark indices such as the Sensex have posted steady gains since April, midcap, smallcap, and microcap stocks have outperformed, indicating wider participation from retail and institutional investors in the ongoing rally.

Experts believe that easing geopolitical tensions in West Asia could provide significant macroeconomic relief for India by reducing pressure on inflation, stabilising the current account balance, and supporting corporate earnings growth.

Despite continued selling by foreign institutional investors, domestic inflows have remained strong, helping sustain market resilience. Analysts suggest that any reversal in foreign outflows could further accelerate gains in the coming months.

Structural factors also continue to support long-term optimism, including ongoing economic reforms, improving corporate balance sheets, and rising capital expenditure across key sectors. Companies are increasingly demonstrating stronger cash flows and lower leverage, which is reinforcing investor confidence.

On the trading front, the Sensex rose by over 400 points during the session, while the Nifty also gained more than 100 points, reflecting positive sentiment across sectors.

India credit expansion drives positive banking outlook

NEW DELHI

The banking, financial services, and insurance (BFSI) sector is expected to outperform in the coming quarters, supported by robust credit growth, improving macroeconomic conditions, and a gradual recovery in earnings, according to a new report.

A study by Motilal Oswal Financial Services highlighted that banking system credit growth remains strong at 17.6%, driven by broad-based lending across corporate, retail, and MSME segments.

The report expects credit growth to maintain a healthy trajectory, projecting a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of around 14% during FY26–FY28.

The brokerage noted that earnings momentum is likely to strengthen across the sector, with private banks expected to deliver significantly higher growth compared to public sector banks. Private lenders are projected to post an earnings CAGR of around 21% over FY26–FY28, while PSU banks may see growth closer to 8%.

Large private sector banks are expected to benefit from stronger balance sheets, stable asset quality, and improving business visibility. However, mid-sized private banks have already outperformed over the past year due to stronger operational momentum.

MCX gold drops amid improving global risk

NEW DELHI

Gold futures declined in domestic and international markets on Wednesday as easing geopolitical tensions and improving risk appetite reduced demand for safe-haven assets.

On the Multi Commodity Exchange (MCX), gold futures fell to ₹1,52,530 per 10 grams, reflecting subdued buying interest amid a broader shift toward riskier assets such as equities. The decline comes after several sessions of volatility driven by global economic uncertainty and fluctuating currency movements.

In international markets, gold futures slipped 0.14% to $4,325.04 per ounce in New York, as investors reassessed demand for safe-haven instruments. Analysts said improved sentiment across global financial markets, supported by falling crude oil prices and easing geopolitical concerns, has reduced immediate pressure on gold prices.

Market participants noted that recent developments in global diplomacy and a decline in energy prices have strengthened risk appetite, prompting investors to move funds into equities and other growth-linked assets. This shift typically weighs on gold, which tends to perform better during periods of uncertainty.

Additionally, expectations around interest rate policies from major central banks, particularly the US Federal Reserve, continue to influence bullion prices. Higher interest rate expectations generally reduce the attractiveness of non-yielding assets like gold.

Despite the current dip, analysts believe gold may remain supported in the medium term due to ongoing global uncertainties, inflation concerns, and central bank demand. However, short-term movements are expected to remain volatile depending on macroeconomic data and geopolitical developments.Overall, the decline in gold futures reflects a temporary easing in global risk aversion, with markets currently favoring equities and other higher-yielding assets over traditional safe-haven investments.

F1 speeds ahead with greener future

LONDON

Formula One has reported a major reduction in its carbon emissions, moving closer to its goal of becoming a net-zero carbon sport by 2030. According to reports, the championship has cut its overall carbon footprint by 35 percent since 2018.

The report showed that Formula One achieved a further 12 percent reduction in emissions during 2025 compared to the previous year. Travel-related emissions, one of the sport's biggest environmental challenges, have also fallen by 27 percent since the 2018 benchmark.

Officials credited the progress to several sustainability measures adopted across the sport. Teams have increased their use of sustainable aviation fuel, while Formula One has expanded remote broadcasting operations, reducing the need to transport equipment and personnel across the world.

The organisation said nearly 80,000 tonnes of carbon dioxide have been eliminated from its operations since 2018.

This reduction is equal to hundreds of millions of kilometres of air travel and highlights the scale of the environmental effort being made.

With 22 Grands Prix scheduled this season, Formula One continues to focus on lowering emissions linked to staff, teams and freight transportation. The sport plans to remove more than half of its current broadcast and related freight operations from air transport by 2030, a move expected to significantly reduce emissions further.

Formula One President and Chief Executive Officer Stefano Domenicali praised the collective commitment of teams and stakeholders. He said initiatives such as a more efficient race calendar, investment in sustainable fuels and alternative energy solutions have helped reduce the sport's environmental impact while allowing it to continue growing worldwide successfully.

The 23-year-old hurt her leg while batting in the opening game against South Africa and will miss the clash with Bangladesh. Litchfield had been in excellent form, smashing a quick 50 off just 23 balls against South Africa and giving her team a strong start. This new injury comes after she had already been managing some discomfort in the same quad muscle before the tournament, forcing her to sit out both warm-up games.

"Nitish Kumar Reddy was unavailable for selection for the second ODI due to a sore left thigh. The BCCI Medical Team is monitoring his progress," the board said in an official statement after the toss. Nitish had played a key role in India's seven-wicket win in the rain-shortened first ODI in Dharamsala. Yashasvi Jaiswal and Kuldeep Yadav returned to the side, while Harsh Dubey and Prasidh Krishna were left out. Afghanistan won the toss and elected to bowl first. In the opening match, Gurbaz had smashed a brilliant century off just 48 balls to give Afghanistan a strong start. However, once he got out, their middle order collapsed.
